HOMEAID CARE DAY WITH CAI-GEORGIA AT SOLOMON'S TEMPLE

ATLANTA, GA – NOVEMBER 18, 2019 – On November 1, members of Community Associations Institute - Georgia Chapter (CAI-Georgia) volunteered at a HomeAid Care Day at Solomon's Temple. HomeAid provides free-of-charge Care Days to tackle maintenance tasks and repairs for nonprofits that serve Atlanta's homeless population. Solomon's Temple provides emergency and transitional housing and programs for homeless women and their children.

CAI-Georgia's Cares Committee has a mission to build better communities by engaging in service to bring CAI-Georgia members together for the common good of others. The dedicated and hardworking volunteers spent the day painting, installing baseboards, doing major landscaping and tree work, cleaning, replacing ceiling tiles, organizing supplies, and much more throughout the three-story facility. The work of these volunteers made a major impact at Solomon's Temple, freshening the interior and transforming the grounds to make the facility feel more like home.

It was truly wonderful to watch same-industry companies come together, putting aside business competition and working for the common good. Our CAI Cares team is awesome!" said Tina Saadat, CAI-Georgia Executive Director. This was HomeAid's third annual Care Day with CAI-Georgia and the final HomeAid Care Day of 2019.
